

Trade Alert For Both Equity & ETF Models

As noted previously, we will continue to use weakness in the market to add additional exposure to the portfolio in preparation for the year-end rally. Today, we are adding 3% of the portfolio into the equity allocation sleeve.

With the exception of the addition of 1% to our SPY trading position, we are adding to our existing core holdings in both models after recent corrective action. We do expect we could see some additional market weakness next week heading into December options expiration. We will continue using dips to add exposure accordingly.
