

This week's scan looks for five stocks not well followed by Wall Street but whose share prices have had a great year. Within this group, we look for robust growth opportunities with strong earnings estimates and a high Zacks Rank.

While the companies in this scan have had an impressive run this year, they may offer additional upside if analysts take notice of their stock price performance and earnings potential and initiate coverage. Doing so would make these stocks visible to a much larger population of investors.

Screening Criteria

- ROE TTM > 10%
- 1yr and 2yr EPS Estimate > 20%
- P/E < 25
- YTD Price Change > 10%
- Zacks Rank 1 or 2
- # of Brokers/analysts Following = 1

Our screen returned five companies, as shown below. Each of them only has one Wall Street analyst following them. Their stock prices are easily beating the market and are up more than 50% in three cases. Despite the recent price gains, the valuations (P/E) remain reasonable, if not very cheap, for two companies (VIST and SBOW). Further, the expected EPS growth for the next two years should help keep the P/E relatively low.

All the stocks have a Zacks Rank of 1 besides SBOW (2). The rank attempts to grade stocks on a scale of 1 to 5 (1 is best) based on their expected price change over the next three to six months. The model uses earnings estimate revisions and EPS surprises to calculate the score.
